ACCUSED MINISTER WEEPS AS HE RELATES STORY OF KILLING

People Reminded To Pay Tax By Feb. 1

COURTHOUSE STIR DEVELOPS BATTLE TO BRING VOTERS

February 1 Is The Last Day For Any Poll Payment
INTEREST ALIVE HERE OVER PLAN
Revenue Board Can Open Books For Registration

The battle of wits between Albany-Decatur and Hartselle forces, concerning the proposed removal of the Morgan county courthouse, settled today in live talk upon the streets of Albany-Decatur, in home and in establishments where everybody who has been registered is being urged to pay poll tax. Payment of the tax on or before February 1 will entitle otherwise unqualified voters to cast ballots in the proposed election.

People who have not registered cannot now do so unless by special order of the county commissioners. The county commissioners can decide to open the books for registration. It is not essential to register prior to the payment of poll tax. Under the present status the registration books will not be opened until the summer months.

Officials at the courthouse today be paid on or before February 1, including all back polls, applying to all persons desiring to be qualified to participate in elections. The law requires that every person between the ages of 21 and 45 is liable to payment of poll tax, with exceptions of some classes declared exempt.

Payment of back tax relates only to the time of residence in this state, persons having to have been citizens of Alabama for two years before being allowed to vote. Past residence in other states does not force the citizen of this state to pay taxes falling due in the former residence state. It was likewise pointed out that to vote a person must have lived here two years. The person must also pay back tax for the two years residence in this state, during which time a ballot could not be cast.

Organizations and citizens of the cities are busy today attempting to arouse interest in the payment of polls, in order that the full voting strength of the cities might be cast into the balance to outweigh whatever strength Hartselle organizations might bring to bear.

Hartselle organizations are declared to have gone to work in earnest with the object in view toward moving the courthouse. It is likewise declared that they feel that they can succeed if Albany-Decatur people do not take active steps at once to control the majority of voters, preventing people from signing the petition which Hartselle people favor.

MALE CITIZENS BETWEEN 21 AND 50 ASSIGNED ROAD DUTY

All male citizens of Morgan county between the ages of 21 and 50 years will be required to work the county roads for eight days of nine hours each, during the calendar year, if proposed local legislation placed before the Alabama state legislature is reported favorably. The bill is being introduced by F. E. Burleson, Morgan Representative.

The bill, previously discussed in farmers meetings called by legislators, is designed to add powers to the Morgan board of revenue.

The road working legislation will be enforced against those citizens who are not exempt under the general laws of the state of Alabama.

Government Fails To Tie Up Deposit of Chaplin in N. Y.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Although Charley Chaplin's deposits in New York banks, estimated at $1,500,000 were tied up by income tax liens today, the comedian had on hand $500,000 in cash, which he succeeded in withdrawing before the arrival of federal agents, the New York American says.

The money was withdrawn from the Bowers and East River National bank just 15 minutes before federal agents arrived yesterday, the newspaper says.

When the bank opened, the story goes, representatives of Chaplin were waiting and immediately presented for payment a personal check of the comedian for $500,000. It was paid without question.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Unless some special reason is given for a change of front, the internal revenue bureau is inclined to support the action of the collector of customs at Los Angeles in tying up the available funds of Charley Chaplin, while his wife, Lita Gray Chaplin, is endeavoring to collect alimony awards.

The government, it was said today at the treasury, will insist in regarding its tax lien against Chaplin's property as superior to others. It was pointed out the question of Chaplin's taxes probably would go through long litigation before the department and wind up by a hearing before the board of tax appeal.

Loaded Wagons Left Along Road

Loaded wagons, left overnight along the Danville roadway, without lights, are declared to be causing considerable discomfort to motorists who are forced to drive that roadway at night. An Albany-Decatur physician, called into the Danville section during the night hours, came very nearly failing to reach his destination owing to the extreme narrowness of the highway and the loaded wagons standing in the center of that thoroughfare. As the physician explained it, he "went thru by main strength and awkwardness."

COUNCIL WILL READ ORDINANCE

Regular Meeting Is Scheduled This Evening at 7:30

Albany city council will meet in regular semi-monthly session tonight at the city hall to hear the reading of an ordinance which proposes the undertaking of a large sewer project running through the east Albany section, now one of the fastest growing sections of the city. Marion S. Bingham was today preparing the ordinance and specifications and expected to have the materials ready to present the council in tonight's meeting.

OIL ARBITRATION GIVEN APPROVAL

Senate Acts To Stop Troop Movement As Solons Rest

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP)—The Robinson resolution, suggesting arbitration of the oil dispute with Mexico was approved today by the senate farm relations committee 13 to 3.

The resolution merely would express the opinion of the senate and would, in no way, be binding on the administration. Secretary Kellogg has disclosed that he is studying the possibilities of arbitration and President Calles, of Mexico, has accepted "in principle" that method of adjusting the present difficulties, but no definite official steps to set the arbitration machinery in motion has yet been taken.

SPOUSE TUGGING IN VAIN AT PURSE STRINGS OF STAR

Attorneys Unable To Collect Alimony Of $14,400

APPEAL SENT TAX OFFICIAL

Request That Lien Be Lifted To Permit Payment

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Lita Grey Chaplin tugged in vain at the purse strings of her screen star husband today in an effort to collect $14,000 temporary alimony and attorneys' fees, while the greater part of the Chaplin fortune to be uncovered since her divorce petition was filed, turned up on the other side of the continent.

The scene of activity shifted to New York last night, when it became known that the government had filed income tax liens against Chaplin for more than $1,550,000 and that Chaplin was reported to have withdrawn half a million dollars from a New York bank a few minutes before federal authorities tied up his accounts.

So far Mrs. Chaplin, who alleged her husband had a fortune of $16,000,000, has been balked at every turn to collect alimony.

Although Superior Judge Guerin yesterday ordered the receivers of Chaplin's property here to pay her the $14,400, income tax liens filed by the government here tied up available funds and she was prevented from collecting. Her attorneys appealed to the commissioners of internal revenue at Washington to lift the lien here so the alimony might be paid.

Counsel for Mrs. Chaplin said they expected the internal revenue commissioner to act favorably on the request so Mrs. Chaplin's claim might be justified.

MA'S REGIME HIT IN REPORT TODAY

Probe Committee In Denunciation Of Pardon Record

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 21.—(AP)—The terms "disgraceful, indelicate and super-liberal" were applied to the pardoning policy of former Governor Myrman A. Ferguson by a special legislative committee, which investigated the state department and reported today.

Governor Ferguson granted 3,595 clemencies in her two-year term, which expired Tuesday.

The report said the power and prestige of the governor's office had been "practically usurped by a private citizen, the husband of the governor, for political favoritism and financial gain and the fact he was a private citizen has placed him beyond the pale of the law."

CONSOLIDATION BILL MAY PASS EARLY IN MONTH

Patterson Returns As The Legislative Body Halts

BURLESON IS AT HARTSELLE

Junior Member Was Taken Ill Early In The Week

Passage of the merger or consolidation bill, merging the cities of Fairview, Albany and Decatur into the one municipality of Decatur, is expected early in February. The bill may receive the signature of Governor Graves during the later days of this month, should action be concluded before February.

Returning today from Montgomery, where the legislature adjourned on Thursday after a week's session, Representative John Patterson stated today that after the three readings in the House, the merger measure goes to the Senate. The bill will be read there and referred to a committee. The committee reports out, placing the bill on the calendar for the final reading. It is not anticipated that final action can be taken on the measure until very late in this month or in the first week of February.

Representative Patterson stated today that he is well pleased with the progress made on the merger measure thus far.

F. E. Burleson, junior representative from Morgan, returned to Hartselle, his home, on last Tuesday, having been threatened with illness while in the capital. The return of the junior member of Morgan's representation did not delay the presentation of the Morgan county road bill, that bill having been published on Thursday for the final time.

The legislature adjourned on Thursday until next Tuesday, when it is anticipated that both Morgan representatives will resume their duties in capitol halls.

Madden Frames New Shoals Bid

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Chairman Madden, of the house appropriations committee, said today that a bill he has drafted to carry out a new offer of the American Cyanamid company for the Muscle Shoals properties, will be introduced Monday. He said he has prepared a statement explaining the features of the new offer and that this would be given to the press either late today or tomorrow for publication Monday.

Pending its publication he declined to discuss the bid but seemed confident that it would meet with a favorable reception by the house membership.

ADULT ILLITERACY DRIVE PLANNED IN VALLEY COUNTIES

Superintendents Of Schools Meet Supervisor

TWO DRIVES ARE ASSURED

Third County Also Is Likely To Conduct Campaign

A campaign to eradicate adult illiteracy, covering three North Alabama counties is likely this summer, following a conference held Thursday in Hartselle and attended by Superintendent Dowling, head of the educational system of Cullman county, Superintendent E. L. Hayes, of the Morgan county schools, Superintendent E. M. Hodson, of the Lawrence county schools and Miss Clutie Bloodworth, supervisor of exceptional education for the state department of education.

Campaigns in Morgan and Cullman counties now are assured and Lawrence county probably will inaugurate a similar effort.

Plans for extending the work, which already has been given a start in this section, were discussed at the conference yesterday. Adult schools will be opened at strategic points in the counties and an invitation extended to all adults who are unable to read or write, to attend the sessions.

Since the beginning of the state's drive against adult illiteracy several years ago, adult schools in various parts of Alabama have been instrumental in teaching hundreds of grown persons the simple fundamentals of an education. In some instances adults, after having learned in the adult schools to read and write, have pursued their studies in courses taught in the higher grades of the ordinary schools.

In the campaign the state has had the wholehearted co-operation of women's federated clubs and much of the success of the schools has been due to the part played by these clubs.

WARRANTS WORRY MORGAN JUDGE

Youthful Violators Declared In The Vast Majority

Issuing five to six warrants a day, some felonies and some misdemeanors, is causing worry to settle across the brow of Judge William T. Lowe, of the Morgan county court. Judge Lowe stated that in the vast majority of cases that warrants were being issued for youthful persons, older offenders being in the minority.

"And it's worrying me, I just don't understand it," said Judge Lowe. "You would be astonished if you looked over the number of warrants I am now issuing and at the ages of people for whom such warrants are being issued. It is causing me considerable worry for I do not understand the cause for so much crime in the county among youthful citizens."

Judge Lowe declares that the charges are well divided among the misdemeanor and felony cases.

PASTOR INSISTS SHOTS FIRED AT CHIPPS WHEN HE FEARED AN ATTACK

Busy Woman

Mrs. Anna C. M. Tillinghast, the mother of two children and a pastor of the Universalist Church, was named Commissioner of Immigration for the port of Boston.

Before giving this part of the story, he had heard himself bitterly lambasted and warmly defended by attorneys in arguments over the admission of certain evidence. He sat silently in the witness box for more than an hour, listening to these arguments, while attorneys for the state referred to him as "this fellow" and spoke of attacks he is alleged to have made on Fort Worth citizens from his pulpit. His face was tense.

The pastor appeared young and slender in his neat blue suit, but his hair was grey and his eyes red.

The debated evidence concerned a remote conversation alleged to have occurred between Mayor Meacham, of Fort Worth, and Norris, which the defense wanted to introduce through Norris.

The judge ruled against the evidence, but not before much of the difficulties between Norris and Meacham and the Fort Worth moral and political situation had been recounted in addresses by attorneys to the court.

The defense said they would link up the remote conversation in a chain of evidence with the killing of Chipps and in supporting this statement, Attorney Moses, of the defense, detailed a narrative in which Chipps, Meacham and Norris frequently clashed.

North Bee Line Is Scene of 'Trouble'

North Bee Line highway, between these cities and Athens, was the scene Thursday of much trial for motorists. The roadway, directly in the region of Swan and Beaver lakes, is badly washed as the result of recent high waters and numerous cars were "stuck" as drivers attempted to slip and slide their way through. Farther along the road red clay hills provided additional difficulties for drivers, the shape of the roadway proving troublesome and forcing drivers to stay in the middle of the road if they desired to continue their various journeys.

Moore, who was superintendent of safety and sanitation of the Southern system, and Mrs. Thornton were slain with a shotgun on a lonely road on the outskirts of Birmingham late Wednesday night.

NO REALTY TRANSFER

TWO WOMEN ARE RELEASED AS SOLICITOR DROPS CASE

Alberta White and Clara Williams, both negroes, were released today following a short hearing before Judge William T. Lowe of the Morgan county court. The women had been held for sometime by Morgan county authorities in connection with the death of Son Baker, negro, who was slain a few weeks ago. District Solicitor Sample suggested that the women be released owing to a lack of evidence against them.

The women were taken into custody some weeks ago and later lodged in the Morgan county jail to await legal procedure. The White woman was represented by Almon and Almon and W. W. Callahan, while the Williams woman employed Wert & Hutson as counsel.

Witness Coughs As He Tells Story of Shooting

DEBATE HOT; NORRIS CALM

Attorneys Engage In a Heated Row On Evidence

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 21.—(AP)—The Rev. J. Frank Norris took the witness stand here today in his trial for the killing of Dexter E. Chipps, lumberman, in Norris' Fort Worth office last July.

The pastor, whose illness suspended the trial for a day early this week, coughed considerably as he took the stand. He said he is 43 years old, was born in Alabama and that his parents moved to Texas in 1899.

As Norris told his story of how he killed Chipps in his church office, he wept and halted over each word. He related how Chipps had come to his office and demanded that he cease attacks on Chipps' friend; had threatened to kill him and of how he shot Chipps when he said the latter came toward him with his hand on his hip pocket.

Before giving this part of the story, he had heard himself bitterly lambasted and warmly defended by attorneys in arguments over the admission of certain evidence. He sat silently in the witness box for more than an hour, listening to these arguments, while attorneys for the state referred to him as "this fellow" and spoke of attacks he is alleged to have made on Fort Worth citizens from his pulpit. # PARTIAL SOLUTION TO COTTON SURPLUS FOUND IN NEW USES FOR CROP

Department of Agriculture Is Of The Opinion That Crop Can Be Marketed Readily

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 21.—(AP)—A partial solution of the cotton surplus problem may be found through new uses for cotton, according to advice here today from the United States Department of Agriculture, which is attempting to find new methods in which to utilize the southern staple.

Prominent among the suggested additional outlets for cotton are its substitution for imported jute and burlap in cotton bale covering and in bagging, wrappers and cordage; the use of cotton instead of paper bags for groceries and feeds, and the creation of an increased demand for cotton in clothing through the development of appropriate styles and the manufacture of cotton cloth suited to various climates.

These measures, the department believes, are all practical to some extent, although they would involve in many cases the displacement of other materials. This would necessitate certain readjustments, and for that reason the full extent to which substitution could go is a question which can not be answered in advance. From the standpoint of cotton growers, however, the department considers the effort well worth while, although it recognizes that the problem cannot be solved in a day.

"Probably the greatest single opportunity to widen the market for cotton lies in the substitution is proposed. Increased use of cotton for clothing could be encouraged, the department believes, by cooperation among women's organizations, manufacturers and distributors of clothing. The arts of the textile designer and of the clothing designer may be enlisted in an effort to bring out fabrics and garments of greater attractiveness.

Style arbiters in this country, it is believed, could be of great assistance. This could be done more easily in the case of cotton than with other fabrics, since the source of the raw material is domestic and the American summer climate affords a strong inducement to use cotton as a clothing material. Scientific studies of finishing and laundering would also help, for in this field, according to the department, there is an attractive opportunity for American enterprise.

"While the task of discovering new outlets for cotton is somewhat beyond the power of the individual farmer, the problem is nevertheless primarily his problem. Manufacturing and consuming interests will be quick to assist wherever neglected opportunities are discovered, and it is thought that in their own interest they will assist materially in the search for such opportunities.

"However, farmers are not without some means of self help. They have a permanent interest in widening the demand for cotton by producing the grades and staples required by the market, and by cooperating with other groups in discovering new uses for cotton. Modern specialization has separated the farmer from the cotton spinner and from the ultimate consumer."

To bridge the gap, says the department, by securing information which will bring about an understanding and appreciation by each of the other's problems, is an effective way to bring relief to the cotton grower.

"Substitution of one material for another involves physical as well as economic factors. Cotton in the form of wrappings competes with jute, sisal hemp, henequin, jutea and other materials. To make cotton a substitute for them it is necessary to have cotton fabrics of suitable weave. Processing to increase durability is doubtless necessary in some instances. Questions as to the adaptability of the substitute must be solved.

Reckless Driver Can Be Punished

A reckless driver, who may kill a person while the driver is behind the wheel of a car can be punished for murder, according to a decision of the Alabama court of appeals. A Daily subscriber clipped a news article from the Montgomery Advertiser and handed it to the Daily with the request it be published "in the hope it may save a life up here." The article follows:

"Ruling by the Alabama Court of Appeals in decision announced Tuesday, affirming judgment of the Walker circuit court in the case of Will Hammell, convicted of manslaughter in the first degree and sentenced to eight years in prison, laws down a construction of the law regarding responsibility of drivers of automobiles.

Hammell was charged with striking and killing a pedestrian, Arthur Blanton, with an automobile that he, Hammell, was driving. Hammell was indicted for murder, the jury in the case returning a verdict of manslaughter in the first degree.

In opinion of the court of appeals, by Judge W. H. Samford, it was held that in the trial of a case involving the charge of striking and killing a person with an automobile, if it was determined by the jury, in any event, that the driver of the car was violating the law, even though the collision between the car and the person is accidental, the driver of the car is guilty of manslaughter in the second degree.

It was further held that if the evidence was to the effect that the car was being driven recklessly and wantonly, and in such manner as to endanger the lives of human beings, then it will be a question for the jury to decide whether the driver of the car is guilty of manslaughter in the first degree, or murder.

CLEVELAND MAY VOTE ON ENDING CITY MANAGERS

Petitions Ask For An Election To Abolish Plan

WAS FIRST CITY TO ADOPT IDEA

Would Make Mayor Elective Instead Of Appointive

CLEVELAND, Ohio.—(INS)—The city manager from a municipal administration may be abolished in Cleveland—the first major city in the country to adopt the custom.

Petitions have been circulated seeking a referendum election which would amend the city charter and make the office an elective, instead of appointive office. The election, if called, will be held within three months. The petitions are said to contain more than half the necessary signatures now.

Despite the enviable record made by W. R. Hopkins, who has filled the position since its creation in 1924, at an annual salary of $25,000, a growing antipathy to the plan has been reported from

This movement was climaxed at a recent mass-meeting led by Harry L. Davis, former governor of Ohio, now in business here. As a result of this session amendments to the charter were drawn up and the petitions for the election broadcast among citizens.

"Why should a city council pick the city's administrative head any more than the legislature choose a governor; or Congress select the president of the United States?" proponents of the movement are asking in their campaign discussions.

The chief argument advanced by this group is that the public is just as well qualified to say who shall direct its affairs as is a group of politicians who would sacrifice efficiency for party loyalty.

Would Pick Mayor
Where a "machine" might gain control of the city's guiding reins, the municipal manager would be kept on the job just so long as he acquitted himself to the satisfaction of the party in power, they declare. And by the same token, an efficient official might be dismissed summarily for treading on the wrong political toes and the public would have no say in the matter.

The amendments would supplant the present city manager, who is appointed for an indefinite period, by a mayor whose term would extend for two years. Paradoxically, the name "city manager" would continue in use in order to preclude amending dozens of sections of the charter and causing an enormous printing expense.

FASHION NOTES

By ETHEL MARSHALL LONDON.—(INS)—The Englishwoman of 1927 is to be as essentially feminine in her dress as her counterpart of 1926 was mannish, according to famous dress designers.

Every indication points to 1927 completely breaking away from the mannish modes that have dominated the feminine wardrobe for the last few years.

Even the plainness and severity of the tailormade has been attacked in the new models for 1927. The coats, which reach to within some four inches of the hem of the skirt, no longer have mannish lapels or straight backs. The coat collars are a cross between a Medici and a roll-shape collar.

The waist, slightly arched at the back under a bodice, is gaining popularity for evening gowns, and black and white is in vogue for afternoon wear here. White-topped evening gowns with draped black skirts, are also being shown at some of the more exclusive fashion houses. The toilette is completed with flesh-colored hose and black patent shoes.

Lace evening frocks also carry out the idea of growing femininity. A single jewel, usually of diamonds, is the only decoration allowed on these gowns, which are worn over an underfrock of mousseline de soie or crepe georgette in same shade.

Business Conditions of States

By ROBERT S. THORNBURG International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—The commerce department has under consideration plans for an examination of general business conditions in Ohio, western Pennsylvania, West Virginia, southern and eastern Indiana and eastern Michigan.

This district has been laid out in a general economic zone for study with tentative headquarters for the survey being placed at Columbus.

A. Heath Onthank, head of the domestic commerce division, said that this far Ohio commercial organizations and business leaders have not evinced strong interest in the proposed economic study. As a result other sections of the country probably will be studied first.

Officials said that it is necessary for the department to survey those districts of the country through business organizations and congressional representatives have been active in seeking economic surveys.

To Study Business
When the Ohio survey finally is made the department will establish a headquarters and appoint a trade commissioner for the district, to keep the Washington office informed of all developments of importance which should be noted and transmitted to other business interests in that section.

Among the conditions to be studied will be the following: (1) Purchasing power of the people, a factor depending upon economic activities.

(2) Methods of doing business, involving the channels of trade and the transportation problem.

(3) Trade areas, to determine where, how and how much business is done.

Owing to the number of comparatively large cities in Ohio an economic survey would be of intense importance to this state, according to officials. The survey would disclose the present trade areas surrounding Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus, Toledo, Dayton and other large cities of the state, and where the territories of wholesale and retailers overlapped.

Manufacturing Possibilities
Vast manufacturing possibilities are seen in Ohio. With an already diversified manufacturing system and excellent transportation facilities the state is advantageously near to the important raw materials of West Virginia, western Pennsylvania and Michigan.

Commerce department officials pointed out that through the economic surveys no attempt is made to dictate to business men how they should conduct their various enterprises.

"Our business is simply to find out the conditions in the districts and to report them accurately, furnishing the facts to commerce and industry for their information and guidance," Onthank said.

"Where surveys have been completed the reports have been of material assistance to business men."

Know what opinions are voiced about things going on in this section of the state, read the editorial columns of this newspaper. Prepared at home for home people.

TODAY 12 Years Ago

From The Daily of January 21, 1915.
The "New Decatur Owl Drug Store" was bought today by Preuit and Dillehay Drug Company.
Henry Johnson of route 3, Somerville, was a prominent visitor in the Decatur today.
Mrs. Helen Moseley of Trinity is spending the week with her daughter, Mrs. W. F. Rauschenburg.
Mrs. Lamar Penney has been ill for the past several days at her home, but today is slightly improved.
Miss Inez Coyle of Huntsville is the guest of her sister, Mrs. J. D. Bush.

Here's the sort of spirit that counts a great deal. Down in Dothan two newspapers have been running full tilt for sometime, last Friday one of those newspapers, The Morning Sun, fluttered across Dothan thresholds for the last time and in its hour of stress and failure to succeed, the paper published the following words: "To our competitive newspaper, the Dothan Eagle, and the Hall boys, we owe nothing but appreciation and admiration for their sportsmanship and clean competition. No competitor could have been fairer and cleaner in act, and we, like to think, in intent. Our good wishes go with them in their successes as we know their sympathy comes to us in our failure." That spirit is born of men, men who have failed temporarily perhaps, but men who will some day rise to the heights which such spirits always attain, and the writer is not speaking of the Hereafter heights either.

NORTH ALABAMA CITIES BATTLE OVER POPULATION FIGURES

Several North Alabama cities have had their say-so editorially regarding population figures, some saying that the census isn't correct, reminding us of the man who went to the dictionary and found that there were so many errors in that instructive, but dry volume, that he threw it away.

Alabama newspapers have almost discontinued the practice of printing "free" plate matter, sent into newspaper offices without the order from the newspaper. Anytime the newspaper takes the view that money is being saved from printing "free" advertising there is another guess coming. In the second place there is no fairness in publishing propaganda for one concern free of charge, then charging full rates to the competitive house. The writer is speaking of the recent bulk of publicity sent out by the Farmers Federated Fertilizer Corporation, business managers and editors do not see any instructions to print and send bill. The Alabama Power Company sent out an advertisement in news form value and paid dollars for value received. Both concerns are after one project, training the public mind, both intend to increase dividends on the strength of public good will and patronage, the power company pays for its "advertisement," the other company fails to do so. The newspaper owner alone can sit in judgment, what is the fair thing to do? The editor is sapping the strength of his columns when he does not treat in fairness, no matter what his personal views may be upon the particular subject being "advertised."

HOUSE ACTS TO INSURE LONGER TERMS FOR THE RURAL SCHOOLS

As one of the ardent advocates of a full length term for the rural schools, The Daily is gratified that one of the first actions of the Alabama house of representatives was the adoption of Governor Graves' administration bill, creating an emergency fund of $600,000 to insure that every school district will have at least a seven months term this year.
Lengthening of the school terms was one of the campaign promises of Governor Graves and, as a result of the agitation of educational authorities, some of the newspapers and sections of the general public, similar promises by legislative candidates played quite an important role in the legislative races. It is gratifying also to learn that the successful legislators, as well as the successful candidate for governor, are living up to their campaign promises.
Governor Graves warns, however, that the emergency measure he advocated must not be considered more than emergency legislation and that permanent statutes must be drafted and enacted into law to provide the funds which will be necessary year after year to make possible the improvement of the rural school situation. It will be seen, therefore, that the task of the legislature only has been begun. It lacks much of completion. However, a good start is not necessarily a bad ending. On the other hand it more frequently presages further successes and the Daily sincerely trusts that this will be true of the present situation.

BRISBANE DISCUSSES LIGHT WINES AND BEER

Arthur Brisbane perhaps caused many people to think who read his columns Thursday afternoon. That famous writer said this with reference to the prohibition question: "Seven years ago the Volstead Act became effective and prohibition began. On the affects of great changes men usually agree in the main. All agree that slavery's end was beneficial, that substituting locomotives for stage-coaches, sewing machines for individual hand-worked needles, telephones for district messengers, etc., was an unmixed blessing. But wets and dries agree not at all. The next Democratic national convention will have two issues—alcohol and a desire to get back jobs.
"And because Democrats disagree as usual, the Republicans will probably have an easy time of it—as usual.
"What is your opinion of prohibition? How many would take the responsibility of ending it if they could do it with pressing a button?
"Of one thing we are all agreed, that it is a blessing to be rid of the result do you think had whiskey, gin, etc., been classed with morphine and cocaine, light wine and beer classed with tobacco? Would that have discouraged bootlegging?"
In other words Mr. Brisbane is at it again, in a sage way. He is leaving the solution of the problem to the reader, figuring that his suggestion, if he laid that much stress on his statement, would awaken memories in the minds of the public. The editor avowedly is no warm advocate of the Volstead Act and would like to see the United States more tolerant in the matter of light wines and beer.
What the famous editor meant was not "do you believe light wines and beer, classed as tobacco, would discourage bootlegging?" but—do you favor the return of light wines and beer?
Mr. Brisbane sees the effect of the Volstead Act, he reads what economists of the Babson type have to say of prohibition values in point of wealth and he does not favor the open saloon, but he does favor the return of light wines and beer. He thinks for you in answering your question, rather than allowing you to think for yourself.
Norway tried prohibition of the Brisbane thought, but Norway soon abandoned prohibition and returned to the "rum" stage. Norway gained no aid from the passage and the enforcement of the law, because her laws provided only that spirituous liquors were under the ban. Democrats while fighting their battles for platforms should remember that NORWAY ALLOWED LIGHT WINES AND BEER AND THAT SOON THE PROHIBITION LAW PROVED A FAILURE AND WAS ABANDONED.
That is America's answer to the problem, it is solved by the Norwegian, light wines and beer to this country will practically cinch success for the anti-prohibition forces, the open saloon will follow within a few months after the channels are opened for obtaining the less invigorating and less injurious liquid. If you will answer your own problem, without the suggestion of others, you will find that Norway has provided an excellent experience for American voters, keeping them from bumping their own heads against the inevitable.

TELL 'EM ABOUT IT, SAYS A LOCAL MERCHANT.
Every once in a while the season closes on merchandise, so merchants, some of them, seem to think. Due to such psychology tradesmen prefer to sit down and wait until the trade revives, meanwhile making very little effort to see that trade is revived.
Upon such occasions newspapers begin pumping home thoughts of the values of advertising and it was upon such an occasion as this that a local merchant stepped into the Daily office one afternoon this week, after a particularly hard day in the newspaper office, one of those days where one department has little to do and another department inevitably has twice as much as the ordinary amount of duty to be done. The merchant looked over the paper and listened to the man alongside him who was talking of the values of advertising.

Breaking in the middle of the talk the visitor observed, "You have it pretty easy here, all the business comes your way, competition is hard in my line, I never saw it harder."
The newspaper man picked up a copy of the afternoon paper and showed the visitor the days work, then added, "You're getting the best newspaper in this end of the state and don't know it, wouldn't know it unless suddenly the quality of the newspaper was cut down, through a possible lack of patronage from the business people. You are getting 64 columns, you're getting more than twice as much local news as the average north state daily carries, you're getting the cream of the world news, you're getting as good features as are obtainable for money, on top of that the newspaper is fighting day in and day out to build your business and your cities. You possibly don't realize it, but that's what is going on in the newspaper office in your city six days of every week."

"Well, why don't you tell 'em about it?" queried the merchant as he wavered beneath the verbal barrage. "That's just what I am doing, returned the newspaper man.
And so, without wishing to be put in the light of thinking too much of its own product, granting its mistakes, granting its failures to get some news stories, granting its failures to sell some on the value of advertising, though the latter product is to the business man what food is to the growing child, the Daily wonders if the people as they read realize in any sense of the word just what amount of work goes on in the average newspaper office.
A newspaper is a home industry, no less than forty people are on the pay roll of the newspaper, including the news boys. The output in a year's time is worth considerable to the cities and to the section, in actual monetary worth.
Yet, the average reader is not expected to worry with the detail of the newspaper world, let that world worry with its own problems. The greatest success the newspaper can gain is in the attaining of goals set in a civic way. The Daily has set 50,000 population as a goal here and with the aid of the good people and patrons it will continue its fight until that city is built here on the southern shore of the Tennessee. That's one thing we are "telling 'em" every day, that Albany-Decatur, Morgan county, has more than a bright future, it is realizing on the potential wealth here now.

Buy at Home, Trade at Home, Build at Home, Hire at Home, Eat at Home, but don't be a Stay at Home when your cities need your energies in a civic way.
S. W. Straus, president of the American Society for Thrift declares "Twenty-five million more money savers are needed" and we might add that if twenty-five million more money savers are found, that there will be fifty million more peedy.

Our Human Machine Rusts Without Care

Neglect of Exercise and Diet Reacts on the Body.
By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Do you realize how dependent you are on the power to move? Without this power you would be no better off than a cabbage.
Not only is locomotion essential to your happiness, the gathering of your food and the pursuit of your business, but upon the forms of motion depend your very life. What, indeed, is the human body but a machine to produce movements?
The artist uses his fingers, the load-carrier his feet and hands, the ditch digger his arms and back. The teacher and preacher and Sanitar use the muscles of the face and throat. Each of us depends on motion or movement of some sort.
The bones of the body are related to each other through the joints. One of the chief uses of the bones is to furnish a place of secure attachment for the muscles which operate the movements of the body. The bones play freely because of the freedom given by the joints.
You see, then, that upon the ease and perfection of movement is founded your welfare as a human being. You can go about your affairs, do your daily tasks and make yourself useful through the particular set of movements which you have adopted.
The mechanism of the body is perfect. The bones are the right size and shape. All the machinery is ready for instant use. What is to be done with it depends on you.
But, of course, there could be no voluntary movement without the muscles and their control through the nerves and brain. Without muscles and the nervous system the body would be no better than a jump-jack or "a monkey on a stick."
On this account the muscular system must be kept in perfect repair and working order. The eating must be such that rich blood and nourishment are supplied the muscles. Exercise, fresh air and sunlight contribute to their welfare.
Leave a machine to the action of the elements and it becomes rusty and squeaky and impaired in function. Neglect the common rules of health and the muscles become soft, flabby and undependable.
We should lead such lives that the muscles are ready to act and to do their part in executing the movements upon which we depend. Since few movements are without the work of several muscles, and since some movements require the co-ordinating movements of many muscles, the whole body must be kept in condition.
Upon good health and vigor depend the accuracy and speed of all the movements of the body. The muscles are under orders every instant. We must see to it that they are kept in perfect condition.

The Views of Others

TIME TO BESTIR OURSELVES
For many years Athenians have boasted that their town was one of the best in the state, size considered. There have been none to say us nay during that time, but during the past several months there have been a few indications that we are at a standstill—if not actually going backward.
Just at this time when all other North Alabama towns are beginning to suffer "growing pains" Athens has had two notable funerals. The first of these was the demise of the Commercial club on July first last. The second occurred the first of January, when the Kiwanis club was gently laid to rest after a pleasant existence of some four years.
If there can be any doubt about the value of a commercial club or a chamber of commerce for a small town we have only to look at the recent achievements of the junior chamber of commerce in Albany-Decatur, which was largely responsible for the location of the Connecticut mills in that place—or places, whichever is grammatically correct. In Florence Sheffield-Tusculum the commercial clubs have kept the homefires burning and have accomplished wonders for years.
In our own town the Commercial club was the principal organization to which inquiries of industrial or civic nature would be directed and such matters decided. To say it was useless is beyond the pale of truth. While apparently quiescent for the last two or three years of its sughish existence, it accomplished things worth while. During the presidency of W. T. Sanders, which ended last July Athens inaugurated plans for securing a compress and due almost wholly to the incessant, enthusiastic work of President Sanders the site has been purchased for such an enterprise and contract signed for erection of the compress and warehouses by interests which have ample means for the successful carrying out of the plans. This means increased population and payrolls for Athens, but we let our Commercial club die for lack of sustenance.
It is the fashion of the Menckens to make sport of Rotary, Kiwanis and other dinner clubs, but they fill a place in the small towns which make for the dispelling of small jealousies on which so many feed where contact is restricted to the same small coterie day after day. The local Kiwanis club, while not doing all that it could have done by any means, accomplished many, praiseworthy acts. Possibly the fact that it failed to measure up to the fullest when opportunities for public service presented themselves was the cause of its demise, but regardless of this fact it is unfortunate that the only civic club for men in the town was permitted to pass out of existence.
The Democrat is not, and never has been, a pessimist, but it feels that it should sound a note of warning at this time to the business men of Athens. An organization should be formed which will embrace in its membership every man interested in the material welfare of the town. The dues need not be excessive, but the membership should be inclusive of every business, educational and religious interest and each should appoint himself a committee of one to pull for the best interests of Athens and the entire county.—Limestone Democrat.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE. (Copyright, 1926, by The Star Co., For Albany-Decatur Daily).

In offering Mr. Brisbane's daily editorials The Daily does not necessarily concur with his opinions, but offers them as the sentiments of the highest paid editorial writer in this country.
THIS, as Will Rogers would say, is written on the train, traveling from Washington to New York.
Millions of American will be glad to hear that the President, seen two hours ago, seemed in perfect health, full of energy, and amid all the Nicaraguan-Mexico excitement, calm as a Vermont elm.
WHAT appears to interest the president just now is internal improvement, projects for canals from the farms and facilities to the sea, and development of unused waters for irrigation, in particular, development of the Colorado river.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE speaks just so fast, and no faster. He knows every word he is going to say before he says it. Words do not come out and surprise him, as happens with others.
You can't hurry him, or choose his subject for him. And as for holding him back, when he means to go in a certain direction, why, to "draw up Levittan with an book" would be child's play, compared with it.
HES a good president, first because he knows what he wants, and, second, because he knows what seven millions more than half of the voters, made and female, want. He knows what the others want, also.

WE ARE becoming an old nation, with a respectfully distant past. Had Benjamin Franklin lived until Monday he would have been two hundred and twenty-one years old. He was a great American, and busy. The "Benjamin Franklins," organized to honor his name, say he distinguished himself as "business man, inventor, printer, editor, statesman, diplomat, harmonizer, public servant, educator, philosopher, philanthropist, benefactor."

Quite a list, and also he was a good swimming teacher, making his living by it in England. Above all, he was wise. He lived on a few pennies a day, no meat, that he might save to buy books—not to buy a ticket to "the fight," dear young gentlemen of 1927.
THE best thing he ever said was, "the noblest question in the world is, what good may I do in it."

CHINESE mobs are looting Christian churches. Too bad, and it fills us with horror. Americans, British, French and other travelers brought home all sorts of loot from Chinese temples after the Boxer uprising. But that was different, the Chinese are only heathens.
Chinese mobs have beaten American women, it is said, and abducted Christian Chinese girls from institutions. You cannot believe quite all you hear.
WORST of all, stories of Christmas slaughtering Chinese babies are spread among mobs, rousing them to brutal fury. How can even the lowest heathens, we ask, spread or believe such monstrous lies?

BUT very good Christians in Austria, Russia and elsewhere have spread just such lies about the Jewish people within a few years, causing massacres and instituting villainous legal charges based on alleged use of Christian children's blood in the Pass-over ritual.
We Christians can learn several things from the Chinese, but not brutality.

GEORGE YOUNG, a boy of seventeen, lived with his mother in Canada. She, a widow, had $135. She gave the money to George, who has courage, and said he would swim the cold, one-mile deep, twenty-one mile wide channel from Catalina Island, to the mainland, win William Wrigley, Jr., $25,000 and buy his mother a California home.
HE BROUGHT a motorcycle, started for California with what money he had left, not there with 50 cents in his pocket, beat contestants that also wanted the Wrigley $25,000, and his mother will move to California.

Gossip of Staff Correspondents at World Centers of Population

DUBLIN.—(INS)—Irish match-making has not changed during the past hundred years. This was made very apparent at the Longford District Court when Miss Anne Kiernan was awarded $300 damages against a farmer named Hugh Kiernan for breach of promise.
It was explained in evidence that the parties only knew each other for half an hour during the time that John Malley, the official matchmaker for the district, conducted the time-honored negotiations, during which it was arranged after much argument that the dowry of $500 should be paid before marriage.
In court defendant calmly acknowledged that he kissed the plaintiff twice the first time he ever set eyes on her and that he was perfectly willing to marry her if he obtained the dowry. He broke the marriage off, because he did not get it, he told the court.
Both parties agreed on the essential facts of the case and stated that they took no part in the negotiations themselves, the uncle of one and the brother of the other making all arrangements. Asked if the element of love entered into the matter the defendant answered frankly "Not much."

It is a curious fact that in spite of the supposed romantic nature of the Irish the same system of matchmaking prevails in all the farming districts of Ireland and moreover that it is extremely successful in the majority of cases, so far as sexual passion is concerned the Irish are a curiously cold people and they generally take into consideration all the pros and cons before they embark on the stormy sea of matrimony.
They are faced in the first instance with the fact that under no circumstances can they obtain a divorce in the Free State. In Ulster it is still possible to obtain a divorce, but no matter what religion a person may belong to he or she cannot get a divorce in the Free State.

The Senate attempted to make divorce possible last year, but the Daily absolutely refused to allow legislation to be introduced. Many private divorce bills which were being prepared at the time were all withdrawn.

Free State women stand in a remarkable position under the Treaty. Lawyers declare that owing to the wording of the Treaty she does not take her husband's nationality on marriage. If this is so she can go to England and get a divorce. If it is not having taken her husband's nationality, she cannot change back and cannot like him establish domicile anywhere else.
No one has yet attempted to test the matter. Only one member of the Daily (Bryan Cooper) has ever divorced his wife, and that was during the English regime. One requesting for divorce was also brought before the Republican Courts when they were functioning, but it was refused even a hearing.
Solons Adjourn Over Week-End
MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 21.—(AP)—The Alabama state legislature was in adjournment today until Tuesday at two p.m.
Before adjournment yesterday a number of bills were passed and several investigations instituted.
A bill creating the 22nd judicial district, composed of Covington county and a gasoline tax bill were passed.
The senate took initial steps for Alabama to lay claim to an interest in Wilson Dam and other Muscle Shoals projects by introduction of a bill providing for a committee of seven to investigate the rights, titles and interests the state has in the project.
The Shoals probe bill was introduced by Senator Jones of Huntsville and is said to have the full endorsement of Governor Graves.
Under Senator Jones' bill, the committee of seven would be made up of two members of the senate, three from the house and two appointed by the governor.

New Bathing Suits for Smart Resorts

The Abbreviated Frock Idea Is Most Effectively Done in Silk.

By Annette Bradshaw.

THE new bathing costumes being shown for resort wear are so effectively designed that the addition of a very few inches would make them into the smartest of frocks. Still, and very important, they do not look like frocks cut off, but are harmonious in every line.

For the slim figure, a short tunic which allows a few inches of the short knickers to show beneath is very smart, and this idea is carried out here in deep and light green moire ribbon. The tunic is caught in a smartly cut hip, and the knickers are held above the knees by narrow bands of the deeper green.

In the other bathing costume, lustrous black satin follows a dashing uneven line and is edged with a fringe treatment made of narrow folded strips of the material. A graceful seagull in white applique makes a lovely decoration for the surplis bodice.

Most of the bathing suits which have appliques or printed or painted designs choose sea birds or grotesque sea animals for their decoration. Fish are shown swimming furiously against a background of ocean blue, and altogether, the power of suggestion should help the owner to battle the waves with grace and utmost ease.

The colorful cotton coolie coats which lent such a picturesque aspect to beach last summer, promise to be seen for resort wear this year, for they have proved themselves practical as well as highly becoming.

PARIS.—"Apples Irene" make a good winter dessert. Select fine apples of good size and regular in form. Peel and let half cook in a light syrup. When cool remove the pulp with care and pass through a sieve.

Mix the pulp with sugar and a little vanilla. Put a layer of it in each apple and finish off with a good vanilla ice-cream to which has been added the juice of soaked prunes.

PARIS.—Fringe as a fashionable trimming has lived through many seasons and is still going strong, but like everything else which concerns Milady's dress, it is taking on new ways and turns.

The new fringes are of a younger generation with added grace and charm and the manner in which Paris uses them is usually quite different from methods hitherto employed.

One of the newest manners is the "degrade" fringes, which are one tone at the top and run through a whole range of nuances of that tone, merging into deeper one at the bottom. These fringes are appearing on afternoon as well as evening frocks for which they were formerly reserved. A charming cocktail frock is almost green armchair cloth, has fringe trimming shaded in the tones of the dress. The straight blouse is made of diagonal panels ending in an uneven hemline at which point the fringe tunic begins. The curved line is a clever artifice for the fringes hanging from it away with extraordinary grace from this line.

In addition to the many wide fringe trimmings that are a la mode, a number of designers are showing simple frocks and coats trimmed with the narrow variety which in many cases are of leopards. The belero of an old-rose model is edged with grey fringe and the usual sleeves are also trimmed with fringe from wrist to elbow where the sleeve is slit and shows a bit of the arm beneath. The tiers are also trimmed with pearly grey loops which create a semi-diaphanous hemline.

Helpful Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl in my late teens and I have been going with a man a little older than myself for about three months. I love him. How can I tell if he cares for me? He never mentions the subject. Is it proper for a girl to get a boy friend something for his birthday? JUST WONDERING.

JUST WONDERING: There is no way of learning what you wish to know until the young man is ready to volunteer the information. If he cares for you he will tell you about it without any urging.

As for your second question, a birthday gift of books is always quite proper and charming.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am very plain and I am in love with a young man who does not love me. What can I do to gain his affections?

My girl friend is very lovely and she has won him from me.

BRIGHT EYES: There is nothing you can do to inspire affection that has not developed of its own accord. This is particularly true when the young man is interested in someone else.

I think you exaggerate the importance of your plainness and your friend's prettiness. There is no reason why you should not be quite as attractive as she is. If you cultivate a charm of manner and conversation. Forget yourself and your imagined shortcomings. Be natural and unaffected. Learn to be companionable and interesting, and I am sure friends will come flocking.

IS THERE NO RELIEF FROM SKIN TORTURE?

Must I Continue To Suffer The Unbearable Itching?

Are you one of those unfortunate who are going through life suffering with a skin disease, making you uncomfortable, making you less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep? You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S. S. S.? For more than 100 years it has been giving relief in many forms of skin disease. Thousands of letters of gratitude prove its worth.

"I feel so happy for what S. S. S. has done for me that I want others to know about it. I suffered twenty long years from eczema. At times the itching was unbearable.

During that time, I used all kinds of salves without receiving any real benefit. After taking six bottles of S. S. S., I was cured of this dreadful disease. I recommend S. S. S. to anyone suffering from eczema, because I cannot praise it enough for what it has done for me." Cleophas Forte, Soldiers and Sailors Home, Quincy, Ill.

S. S. S. is purely vegetable. It is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Yale Professor Thinks Greeks Played Baseball 1300 Years Ago

By International News Service
NEW HAVEN, CONN.—Athenian youths who lived in the year 627, indulged in games not unlike those of American youths in the year 1927, in the opinion of Professor Paul V. C. Baur, curator of classical archaeology at Yale university. Professor Baur bases his belief on his study of three bases for statues recently found in a wall in Athens.

"One base is marked with reliefs representing a game of baseball with three players on a side," says Professor Baur. "On another is seen a game similar to hockey. A third game would be considered without the law in those days. 'On a third are two youths, one holding a dog in leash, the other a cat. Lounging spectators eagerly watch the outcome.'"

There were other discoveries made in Athens. "Perhaps the most remarkable discovery of recent times," says the professor, "is the bronze original by Phidias himself of a standing youthful figure found at Pompeii. The statue probably was purchased by an aristocratic enthusiast to adorn his house. Later some plebeian Pompeian got possession of it and used it as a lamp shade."

For World Flyweight Crown

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP)—A 29-year-old Scotchman will sally forth into the resin dust of the Madison Square Garden ring tonight in quest of the world's flyweight crown, which famous Jimmy Wilde lost here more than three years ago.

Elky Clark's attempt to regain the title for Great Britain from Fidel Labarba of California will mark the far west titleholder's most important eastern conflict since he mounted the throne a year and a half ago. It also will be the champion's first "long distance" fight here during his brief reign among the little men of flatland for Labarba, after being limited to six-round contests in New York before reaching his majority, this time will have twelve three-minute rounds within which to clinch his claim to world's supremacy.

Ring critics have not been favorably impressed with the European challenger's training exhibitions and Labarba has been made a two-to-one favorite. But, a long record of overseas victories by Clark, punctuated with frequent knockouts, has encouraged expectations of a rugged and aggressive battle on the part of the British boxers.

Observers believe Clark's chances have been materially improved by Labarba's difficulty in making the 112-pound weight limit. A natural flyweight, the British contender has been able to approach peak conditions by easy stages, whereas Labarba, who is expected to place chief dependence on his speed, has been compelled to adopt stringent measures to reduce.

The championship fight will be supported by three other flyweight matches, with Frankie Genaro, former American champion, opposing Newsboy Brown of Sioux City, in the semi-final.

In the preliminary ten, Billy Kelly of Scranton, Pa., will mix with Trip Limbaco of the Philippines, while there will be a special four-rounder featuring Willie Davies of Charleroi, Pa., and Mickey Durano of New York.

Reindeer Meat May Become a Delicacy On American Tables

By International News Service
SPOKANE.—Vilhjalmur Stefansson, noted polar explorer, declares that reindeer meat from Alaska will soon be popularly and widely served in America. To test the disposition of travelers through the Northwest on this question, the Northern Pacific railway has begun serving reindeer steaks from Nome, Alaska on dining cars.

The demand for "polar venison" was inaugurated the other day by Mr. Stefansson, while a passenger on the "North Coast Limited" of the Northern Pacific from Fargo, N. D. to Spokane, Wash. he ordered "reindeer steak." While the order was an unusual one the reindeer meat was secured by telegraph and served to the distinguished explorer before he left the train.

Reindeer meat is becoming more the development of the business of and more easily procurable with furnishing it to large hotels in the East, it is said. The animals are being shipped via Seattle in increasing quantities.

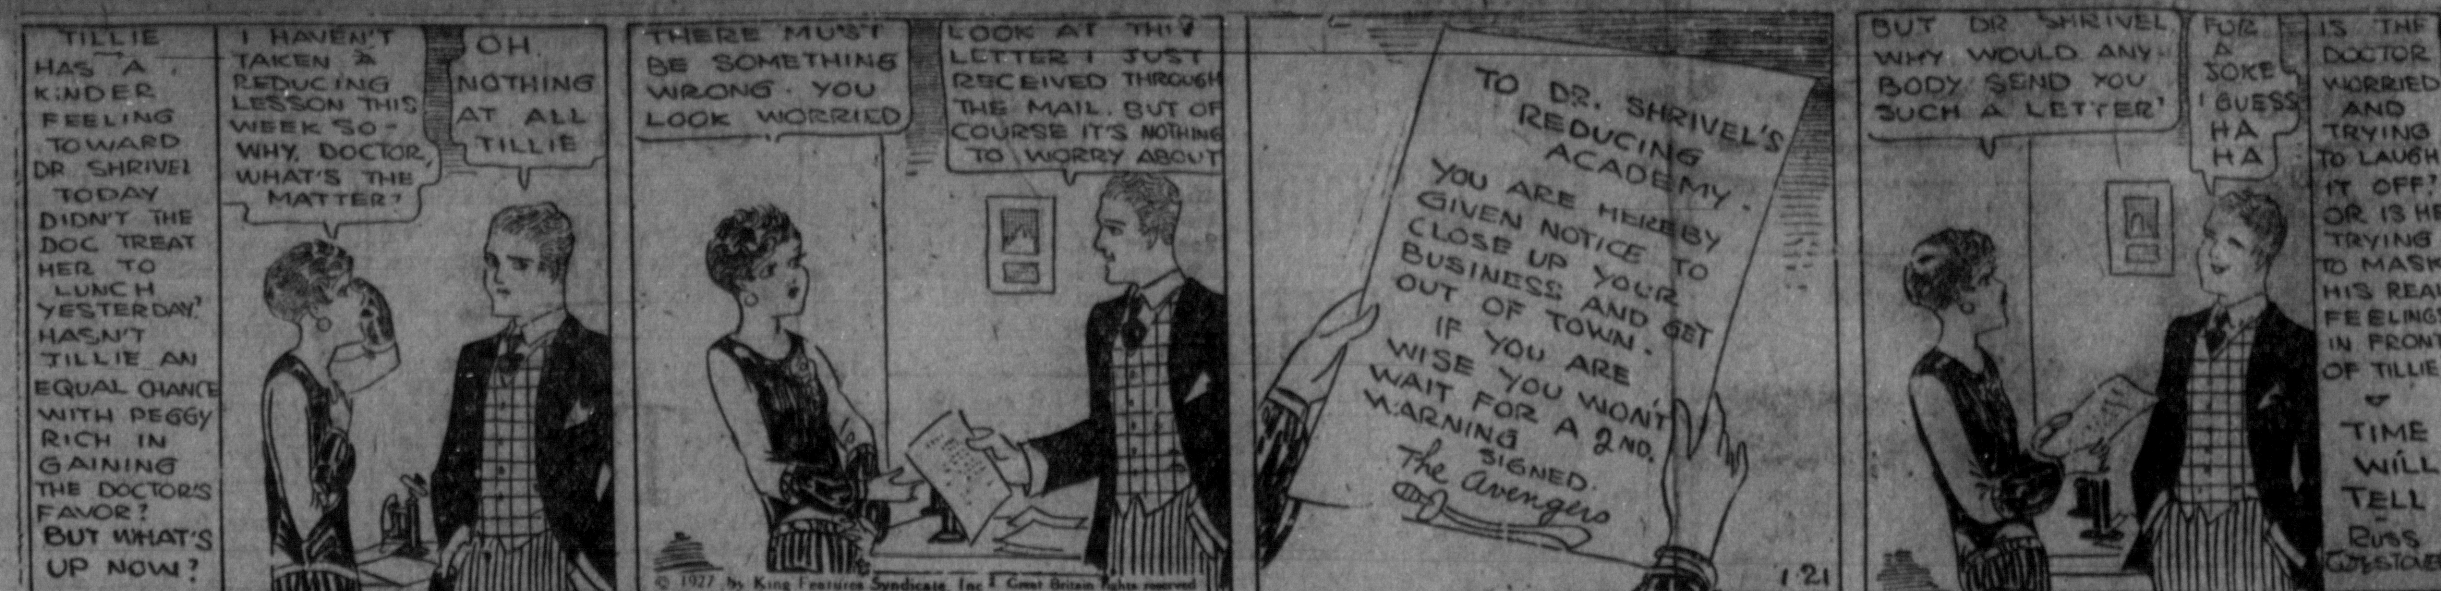

"Reindeer is commonly thought of as a wild creature of the frozen North," A. W. Thomason, superintendent of Northern Pacific diners said. "Contrary to this general opinion, the reindeer that is shipped to this country is a domesticated animal raised especially for food purposes."

RURAL LIFE SECTION

Activities of interest to the farm home.

The girls of the Pleasant Hill Sewing Club met on January 14, 1927, for their regular meeting. The meeting was called to order by the president. We sang a song led by the cheer leader. A yell was led by the cheer leader. The roll was called by the secretary and the girls answered by telling what they have done since the last meeting which was held in December. We then went to work on the garments and almost finished them.

We were honored by one visitor, Mrs. Garnett, who spoke to the girls about the wonderful things they were planning at Auburn. The club pledged five dollars to help build the "Farmers Home" at Auburn.

We adjourned with the club pledge, led by the cheer leader.

Louis Robinson, Secy.

Number Of Arrests Follow Edicts For Health

The Limestone County Health Department under the direction of Dr. L. R. Murphree this week launched a movement to clean up the city, especially in a sanitary way, and numerous arrests have been made every day on the complaint of Benjamin D. Peck, county sanitary inspector, every morning witnessing a large number of defendants in Mayor Sarver's Court. The alleged guilty parties in most instances are those who live outside the city water limits and are not taking the proper measures for the disposition of garbage and refuse and the spread of contagious diseases therefrom, a large majority of those arrested being negroes. In most cases the Mayor has been exceedingly lenient, imposing a small fine and warning the guilty parties to follow the city ordinances applicable to such cases in the future.

Stove Explosion Does Heavy Damage.

A very narrow escape from serious injury was had this week by Mrs. Earl Stover and young son, Charles, when their kitchen stove exploded, the boiler having frozen in the course of the night. Mr. Stover had made a fire in the range, and shortly afterwards his wife repaired to the kitchen to prepare breakfast. A deflagrating explosion following caused Mr. Stover to investigate and on entering the kitchen he found the room filled with ashes, fire, and smoke, but no sign of his wife and child. On feeling around he found Mrs. Stover lying on the floor, badly lacerated and cut and practically unconscious; the young son was seriously hurt. The fire was soon put out, and latest reports state that both injured parties are on the road to recovery.

Yale Adopts Plan For Good Influence Over Amateur Theatricals of Country

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (INS)—Yale University hopes to exercise beneficial influence over the nation's amateur theatricals. Professor George Pierce Baker, head of Yale's department of the drama, having finished his task of preparing an expensive new theatre here, is turning his attention to aiding amateur dramatists and actors elsewhere.

Professor Baker will invite a long list of such persons to gather here next month to discuss their problems with him. Little theatre organizations in many cities have been asked to send him lists of persons worthy of being invited to the conference, planned as the first of a regular annual series.

Davis Enjoying His New Duties

B. E. Davis, new sheriff of Morgan county, is enjoying his new duties, he told The Daily today. "Much to my surprise, I am enjoying the duties of sheriff more than I had expected," he said. "Things seem to be moving along pretty well. I can say this to the people of Morgan county: I expect to give the office my personal attention. I am going to try to give the people a good administration. If I fail, they can blame nobody but me, for I am going to be sheriff."

Airships Cutting Time of Journey

By International News Service. LONDON.—A service of British airships will shortly be flying from England to New Zealand in 13 days—a saving of 33 days on steamer time.

The service was enthusiastically approved by the recent Imperial Conference, and the Air Ministry has published details, plans and specifications of the airships, which are now under construction.

The safety of this means of conveyance can be judged from the fact that the freight insurance premium by airship is less than half the rate charged for surface transport.

Much preparatory work still remains to be done before the service can be put into commission. There will have to be dozens of signalling stations, where timely warning can be given of weather ahead, especially in the tropics. There will also be a number of mooring masts, costing $350,000 each, and capable of holding airships of five million cubic feet capacity. These masts are really enormous lattice-work towers, with lifts from the ground and platforms at the top, enabling passengers and crew to embark and to facilitate the loading and unloading of freight.

Landing bases will also have to be prepared at Ismalia (Egypt), Karachi, Mombasa, Durban, Cape Town, Bathurst, Colombo, Perth, (Western Australia); Melbourne and Ottawa. In the end there will be complete inter-communication facilities for all parts of the British Empire.

Colorado Health Board Asks $90,000

By International News Service. DENVER.—The Colorado Board of Health will ask the state legislature, in session now, for $90,000 a year to carry on its program of health activities, it was learned today.

Dr. S. R. McKelvey, secretary of the board, has prepared a tabulation showing the various activities supervised by the health department, which demonstrates the enormous scope undertaken to better health conditions in the state and co-operate with federal and local health authorities.

The activities are divided into ten departments, each with a director, and according to Dr. McKelvey, each division is greatly in need of a larger staff and more funds. The administration of the health department has been done without a permanent staff, the burden of the work falling on Dr. McKelvey, with what help he could get from other divisions. The work of administration includes the holding of health conferences, lectures, and exhibits, and supervision of hospitals and sanatoriums. The department also co-operates with local health officials, the U. S. Department of public health, and publishes regulations covering public health problems.

LIMESTONE CITY MAY GET HOTEL

Need Emphasized By Traveling Public In Past Years

By D. L. ROSENAU, JR. A large first class hotel or apartment house is said to be quite likely for Athens in the near future. Mrs. Sallie Hesser Duffy of Riverton, Ill., and formerly of Athens, having under serious consideration plans for such and having submitted them to contractors for estimates. Mrs. Duffy is the owner of a large lot on East Market St. within a half a block of the railroad station that is admirably suited for hotel or apartment purposes, and the need for a good-sized, modern hotel in Athens has long been felt and emphasized by the traveling public. Mrs. Duffy will probably reach a decision in the immediate future, as her lot is of considerable commercial value and has stood idle for quite a number of years.

Sheriff Appoints Chief Deputy.

James Clem, 24 year old sheriff of Limestone, has appointed Bernard Arnett as his chief deputy. Mr. Arnett having been jailed under the past sheriff, Van Buren Gilbert, when Clem was chief deputy. Mr. Arnett has long been a member of the sheriff's forces and is well qualified to fill the position. His successor as jailer has not as yet been named.

Basketball Practice Opens

Basketball practice has opened at the local Agricultural School, Coaches Rice and Weaver being in charge. Several of last year's best players are back, and in addition Mr. Rice states that first class material is present among the new men. The first games will be played around the first part of February.

Escapes Injury In Auto Wreck.

W. T. Yarbrough, Jr., of Athens, barely missed being seriously injured in an auto wreck south of Montgomery this week when his car, a Ford coupe, overturned. ## Your Income Tax

NUMBER 5

The revenue act of 1926 provides that if the status of a taxpayer changes during the year his personal exemption shall be determined by apportionment, in accordance with the number of months the taxpayer was single, married, or the head of a family. The act of 1924 contained a similar provision.

For example, a couple married on July 31, 1926, and living together on December 31, 1926, may file a joint return and claim an exemption of $3,208.33. That is, seven-twelfths of $1,500 for the husband while single, or $875, plus seven-twelfths of $1,500 for the wife while single, plus five-twelfths of $3,500, or $1,458.33, for the period during which they were married. If separate returns are made husband and wife may each claim a personal exemption of $1,604.17. The husband is entitled to seven-twelfths of $1,500, or $875, for the period during which he was single, and one-half of five-twelfths of $3,500, or $279.17, for the period during which he was married. The wife is entitled to similar exemptions. In case separate returns are filed, the joint exemption of $1,458.33 for the period during which they were married may be taken either by husband or wife, or divided between them.

A person who, on July 31, ceased being the head of a family—the support in one household of a relative or relatives being discontinued—is entitled to an exemption of $2,666.67, which is seven-twelfths of $3,500, plus five-twelfths of $1,500.

With regard to the $400 credit for each dependent, the taxpayer's status as of the last day of the taxable year determines this credit. If, during the year, his support of such dependent ceased, he is not entitled to this credit.

Fashion Flirts To Open At Princess

The "Fashion Flirts" will open a week's engagement at the Princess theatre Monday. Press announcements regarding the production are full of praise. One of the press clippings follows:

Direct from the new million dollar Capitol theatre at Ottawa, Canada, where they held the boards for a year's run, is Jay Mason and his "Fashion Flirts" company of miniature musical comedy performers, playing at the Orpheum theatre this week.

The company is made up of flirters and flirtees with about twice as many flirtees as flirthers. Jay Mason is the ringleader with the comedy group and in the opening bill puts the audience in a hilarious mood. Peggy Ward with an excellent "blues" voice comes in for a good amount of applause as does Rita Reda, prima donna.

The chorus could be well added as a headliner; the wardrobe, steps and voices being among the best ever offered here.

The usual change of program will be made Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.
